

COMP3052.SEC Computer Security

Session 17: Final Comments

Acknowledgements

- The SEC module is one of our favourites
 - We've enjoyed spending this semester with you exploring the various topics
 - Thank you for attending, engaging, and making this semester as enjoyable as it has been!

We've seen and done a lot

- Main topics
 - Introductions, Foundations, Crypto, Authentication, Access control, Firewalls, Reference Monitors, Metamorphic (Cyber) Security, Software Vulnerabilities, Network Security, Internet Security, Database Security, Intrusion Detection, Unix Security, Windows Security, ...
- Also explored lots of tools and technologies in the labs, and had practical experiences ...
 - Nothing illegal or against regulations, I hope ...

Examination

- Thursday, May 21st, 5:00 pm, Siyuan Auditorium

The University has a description of what you need to do to get the different grades

- I, II.i, II.ii, III, SF
- You've seen them before ...

University Scales: First Class (70%+)

- Deep understanding of subject; carefully balanced arguments clearly presented; all material highly relevant to the question.
- Considerable and effective use of literature information, beyond that supplied as taught material.
- Clear evidence of critical thinking, originality and novelty.
- Excellent structure and good use of illustrative diagrams etc. with evidence of originality/novelty in presentation.

University Scales: II.i (60-69%)

- Sound grasp of subject material; presentation of logical arguments relevant to the question.
- Reasonable evidence of wider study beyond lecture material.
- Some evidence of independent thinking and originality.
- Well organised answer with appropriate use of illustrative diagrams; clear presentation.

University Scales: II.ii (50-59%)

- Reasonable understanding of subject material, but some flaws in the logic of arguments and factual errors; possibly some irrelevant material.
- Only limited evidence of wider study and use of literature information.
- Little evidence of independent thinking or originality.
- Fairly clear presentation; generally conforming with accepted format but with some flaws in style; little use of illustrative material.

University Scales: III (40-49%)

- Limited understanding of subject; numerous flaws in the logic of arguments; considerable factual errors and/or irrelevant material.
- Virtually no inclusion of literature information beyond lecture material.
- Virtually no evidence of independent thinking or originality.
- Little attention given to structure; very limited use of illustrative diagrams; serious flaws in presentation.

University Scales: (Soft) Fail

- Minimal understanding of subject; serious factual errors; general lack of any logical arguments; considerable amount of irrelevant material.
- Virtually no inclusion or awareness of literature information.
- No evidence of independent thinking or originality.
- Very poorly structured answers; disorganised and untidy; missing sections; virtually no use of illustrative diagrams.

Examination Structure

- 60 minutes, 60 marks
 - (CW1+CW2 = 40)
- 2 parts (30 marks each)
 - Each with subparts (or sub-questions)
 - Answer all of them!

Preparation Strategy

- Revise Class Session Topics
 - (Overview slides and watch videos in a moment)
 - Do the Activities
- Practice writing answers
 - Textbook, past papers, Moodle, from friends
- Work in a team!
- Use Moodle

Examination Strategy

- Stay calm!
- Read the question
 - Check the marks
 - Answer the question
 - Aim for about 1 minute per mark, but don't panic 😊
 - Don't waste time! Move on, if necessary
- Make sure I can read your answers!

Finally ...

- We've really enjoyed spending this semester with you
- Good luck in your exams and your future lives
- Feel free to contact us anytime if we can help with anything (recommendation letters, advice, ...)
- let us know how you are getting on 😊

Thank you!

&

Good Luck!
